BIOGRAPHY OF THE STEVENS AND OTHER FAMILIES.

Some Very Interesting History That Goes Back to the Early Days of Kentucky.

LIVES OF THE EARLY PIONEERS.

—dear, wild turkeys and squirrels—say of which were very fine for table use. There remained of these a considerable number for forty or more years after the coming of those pioneers to Kentucky. After all, the early pioneers of Kentucky had no very easy task. It took a great deal of hard labor to roll back the heavy forests and open up farms. As money was very scarce, and there was little or nothing to buy, they made shift to get along as best they could, using themselves as an exchange of property for another. They were compelled, however, to have money to pay their taxes and buy their horses. They had to go a long way—I think to the Ohio River—to obtain a horse, and then to get a team to pull the wagon.

So far as clothing was concerned they were quite independent. They had wool and raised cotton and flax, and made cloth of their own spinning. They had their spinning wheels and looms and seersors and thimbles and needles, and knew how to use them. They could make all clothing needed for their family, and they could make all their bedding.

Not a great while after the Stevens family came to Kentucky, there were many members of the family who were single when they came, and married, and had families of their own.

John Stevens, the father of the Stevens family, had three sons—John, Richard and Charles. John married a Miss Smith, William a Miss Pugman, and Thomas a Miss Wardell; Elizabeth married John Duke; Richard, Henry and Charles married women of their neighborhood.

SHORT SKETCHES OF THE NOMINEES.

DEMOCRATS TO BE VOTED FOR NEXT NOVEMBER.

All are Active Campaigners and Men Who Have Labored Much
For Their Party.

RIGHT MEN FOR THE RIGHT PLACES.

Senator Wm. Goebel, of Kenton county, was nominated by the Louisville Convention, and in 1898 was elected to the Senate. His action had been made and carried the most of late. He did not stand for re-election, and he was defeated in the election of Col. John C. Breckinridge.

After his discharge Col. Goebel located in Lincoln county and became a good lawyer, and will, say those who know him, add 10,000 votes to the majority in November.

For Governor—William Goebel, of Kenton county.

For Lieutenant Governor—J. C. W. Beckman of Kenton county.

For Attorney-General—E. G. Coulter, of Graves county.

For Auditor—J. W. Hager, of Bell county.

For Secretary of State—C. H. Bush, of Clermont county.

For Sept. Public Instruction—H. V. McCracken of Lexington county.

For Auditor of Agriculture—Col. T. B. Hall of Jefferson county.

Brief biographical sketches of the Democratic nominees are given below:

THE NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR.

Senator Goebel was born in Covington, Ky., in 1850. About forty years ago he became a member of the Democratic party.

He received a good education through his mother's influence.

He was a good student in school.

M. C. M. BARNETT, who is Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, in his speech at the court house here Monday, recommended the use of shotguns at the coming November election.

A FIGHT that will provoke no little interest in Kentucky will be on the scrap heap of the Courier-Journal and the L. & N. railroad. The former has laid down the gauntlet, and the gauntlet is being adjusted. It will be a battle royal.

The Bowling Green Courier says the ticket is not to its liking, but the only choice left to it is to support Bill Taylor or Bill Goebel, and without asking leave for time to retire and consult, it goes with Goebel. That's Democracy.

Quite a scramble is going on for Congressmen Bland's seat from the Eighth district in Missouri. There will be a number of candidates of both political parties, and the Republicans especially will make a strong fight for the place.

The degree of "style" are inviolable. The latest "society note" is that it will be "bad form" and "out of season" to say divorce between now and October. Wrangling life partners who still want to remain in the push, will please a note of this.

The HERALD is feeling all right, thank you, and likes the ticket first-rate. Our policy of neutrality in the race for Governor has not had bad taste in our mouth, and we enter into the fight for Democracy handicapped by no prejudice or auto-vocation utterances.

From the tone of the Republican speeches here Monday, it is to be either Goebel or shotgun. The Republicans have always been anxious to introduce the shotgun at the polls. But then, you must remember, gentlemen—shame!—there are shotgun and shotguns.

The Republicans may rear and cower and tear their hair in demonstration of their hatred of the Goebel election law, but the gentlemen who heads the Democratic ticket will certainly be the next Governor of Kentucky, Goebel law or no Goebel law. This is what is lacking the Republicans more than the Goebel law.

The editor of that Democratic paper in the lower end of the State who wrote Mr. Goebel's political obituary and published it just after the first ballot was taken at Louisville, is now expected to cough slightly and ratify the exchange when the former asks if the head of the ticket is to be set in cap or lower case.

The Republic State Convention which assembles in Lexington next Wednesday promises to be a very tame affair. Of course the leaders of the party of trusts will undertake to pain of the least of antithesis for harmony, but the fact that there has been very little contest for any of the offices within the gift of the convention, is proof conclusive of the apathy in Republican ranks. Kentucky is seeing its last day of Republican rule.

The annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association will take place at Henderson, Ky., next Tuesday and Wednesday, July 11 and 12. The people of Henderson are making big preparations for the event, and promise to entertain the editors in fine style. The customary outing will be to Petoskey, Michigan, which will occur after the business meeting at Henderson. The members of the editorial fraternity of Kentucky are looking forward to next week with happy anticipations.

Bachelors and other males will have to look sharp. Scientists have discovered that there is a "kissing bug" found in the atmosphere and that its attacks are poisonous. Experienced ones say this audacious insect will fly straight at the nose of a person and bite it with such force as to leave a mark with a vicious-looking scar. The next day the young man's mouth is of about the size and appearance of a collapsed hose-rear. The "kissing bug" seems to know its business, for it is said it never attacks old people.

As might have been expected, there are several Democratic papers in the State which are condoning their countenances and swallowing their Adam's apples at the result of the Louisville convention. They should bear in mind, however, that it is not to every man to be on the winning side. It is the duty of every Democratic paper in the State to accept the result cheerfully and not try to kick against the ecclesiastical. It is hard, I find, for any man or paper to stick to the ticket just because nominations did not go exactly his way.

A HEARTRENDING story comes from Cuba. It is said there are 50,000 children in the island who have lost one or both parents in the recent war and during the last years of Spain's oppression. Mention is made of several towns which scarcely an adult is left alive. In these places the younger children are being supported by the older ones, and the condition of the destitute condition is appalling. An effort is being made in this country to relieve the distressing condition of things in Cuba by raising a Cuban orphan fund. It is hoped that this move will meet with much success. American hearts cannot withstand the cry of these starving children at our door.

There are some Democrats who are inclined to disown the support of the ticket, but we see little cause for obloquy or reproach. Let it suffice that the Courier-Journal is for the regular Democratic nominees this year, and let the past record of this paper, whether approved or not, stand by itself. Mr. Watterson has made his position very plain, in dictation characteristically elegant and aphasic, and should be allowed to do his own thing, provided he is giving a good word for the nominees of the party which has always been proud when claiming him as a member. The editor of the Courier-Journal may be shamed, and berated—and—metaphorically, of course—to the regions of Limbo, but somehow he always comes up smiling and saying something, both appropriate and cutting. He can do the cause of Democracy much good. Let's not try to hinder him.

In one respect matters have turned out just as THE HERALD expected in regard to the result of the Louisville convention. The Dispatch has bolted and will not support the ticket. Several months ago THE HERALD anticipated this break, and deplored the policy which was leading Kentucky's big Democratic rally so grievously a mistake. The Dispatch was established as the organ of the whole Democracy of the State, and as such, it should have never allowed anything whatever to provoke it into a split with the party. It is said that Mr. Goebel could have been declared the nominee on several occasions previous to the 26th but, he did not do it, accepting the nomination of this body under the auspices of the duly constituted authorities. Whether Mr. Goebel's nomination was absolutely fair or not, according to the objectors' idea of fairness, it can hardly be said that his means which were below the practices employed in ordinary political contests, or which would not have been countenanced by either of his opponents if positions were reversed. It was a desperate game of politics, and the best player won. It is said that Mr. Goebel could have been declared the nominee on several occasions previous to the 26th but, he did not do it, accepting the nomination of this body under the auspices of the duly constituted authorities.

Since Mr. Goebel has been declared the nominee of the State Convention, it is the duty of every true Democrat in Kentucky to support him as well as the other nominees on the ticket. He will make an excellent Governor from several points of view. He is absolutely incorruptible and incorrigible. He is as firm as a mountain of flint against that which he deems to be wrong. No known power can move him when once his convictions are set. He is fully conscious of the situation under the eye and all circumstances. He is a man of noted strength and endurance. He can live in several respects like a great fighter Governor. Taking into consideration the fact that his life was contained nothing intimidating—except the killing of an assailant, of which he was cleared in the courts—and that the worst that could be said of him is that he is a man of boldness and iron will, it would be entirely compatible with good sense for every Democrat to throw aside all prejudices and support him. He is a good man, and they should be party principles. Their eligibility is proven by long years of party service. Each man seems peculiarly fitted for the office he seeks. It is a strong ticket, an acceptable ticket, and one that will win on November 7 next.

Mr. Goebel's nomination was a surprise and yet it was not a surprise. He was the hindmost man in point of instructed votes at the beginning of the convention. But to his friends—those familiar with the genius of the man—this fact offered little discouragement. It was known that Mr. Goebel was a shrewd politician, a man of the most remarkable tact and ability. His body was torn into fragments, pieces of the flesh being carried out with the straw.

CONVENTION COMMENT.

A SPLENDID ORGANIZATION.

THE WASHINGTON TIMES.
The Hon. William Goebel, who has just been nominated for Governor, is the pride of the men from Kenton. Mr. Goebel had every detail carefully mapped out and he followed them up with prompt action.

Mr. Stoen entered the convention with the second largest number of instructed votes, and he occupied a most advantageous position. But Mr. Stoen and his friends were overconfident. They were so sure of the nomination of the gentleman from Lyon that they accepted the overtures of Mr. Goebel for pooling of interests and allowed the latter to name his own committee on credentials. Then a committee on credentials was appointed at Mr. Goebel's dictation. Almost before Mr. Stoen seemed to know it, he had surrendered to Mr. Goebel the key to the situation.

In the meantime Mr. Hardin and his friends had remained quiet spectators of these transactions, powerless to help themselves, yet making the inevitable approaching as surely as the flight of time.

After the chairman had been seated and the committees had reported, the nomination for Governor was sure. Mr. Goebel's nomination was then shown to the floor. At this moment a hand of a clock crept across the noon, so did the events transpiring at this time fortell Mr. Goebel's nomination. So accurately had he planned matters that there was not a jot or a tittle to his disadvantage. It was a big game of politics, in which the man from Kenton is a champion.

There are some Democrats who are disposed to disbelieve with Mr. Goebel's nomination and the way he got it. These persons should remember, however, that his nomination is the result of a Democratic convention in which many can be an ally, and the result of the election of the body who unit the auspices of the duly constituted authorities. Whether Mr. Goebel's nomination was absolutely fair or not, according to the objectors' idea of fairness, it can hardly be said that his means which were below the practices employed in ordinary political contests, or which would not have been countenanced by either of his opponents if positions were reversed. It was a desperate game of politics, and the best player won.

Mr. Goebel stands as the organ of the Democratic party of Kentucky—as the regularly organized. Mr. Goebel's nomination was the result of the Democracy of the State, to have the undivided advocacy of all the elements of the party. The convention was unit in principle, and from the beginning there was no excuse for any disagreement to arise.
